SOUTHERN NEWS.
 Charles Corling, a prominent citizen of Petersburg, died on Wednesday.

Efforts are being made in Virginia to raise funds for a monument to Dr. James A. Duncan.

Courier-Journal. Corn is selling in Hyde County, N. C., for $1 per bushel. In some counties in Kentucky it is selling for $1 per barrel.

At the last hour the Petersburg Artillery decided not to visit the Weldon Fair, on account of the illness of their commander, Capt. W. W. Baugh.

Twenty thousand people witnessed the competitive drill at the Georgia State Fair. The Atlanta boys carried off the honors, rather, took the rag of the bush.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens' private Secretary says that the entire delegation of Georgia in Congress is satisfied with the selection of United States Marshal for that State.

Richmond Whigs. The liquor-dealers are sending 20,000 circulars to dealers throughout the State, urging them to become members of the State Association of Liquor-dealers.

The Mobile Register says that the Southern women were nervous during the war; that at Vicksburg and Paducah, when the shells went through the houses, they would go down into the basement and get dinner ready as usual.

The Sp. is now prospering because it was bought Southern men to save money and live on less money than formerly, and because white labor and wife energy are resurrecting and revivifying the South.

The principal of a school in Covington, Ky., denies that an unpleasantness existed between him and a lady teacher arose from his threat to kiss her if she were a dictator, and says that she charged "hears on his face the persuasive odor of its own improbability."

Richmond Enquirer. From the following note to Mr. John Bell Bigger, Secretary of the State Conservative Committee, it will be seen that Mr. David Miller has withdrawn from the gubernatorial canvass:

Bristol, Va., October 19th.
 J. Bell Bigger, Esq.:
 Dear Sir:—I have declined to run for Governor. I have failed to get up an organization. That is necessary to success.
 Yours, etc.,
 DAVID MILLER.

STATE NEWS.
 New corn has made its appearance in the Greensboro market.

The Lumberton Robesonian will begin the next year with new type on which to print that excellent weekly.

The publication of a newspaper, The Carthaginian, is to be commenced in Carthage, Moore county, on the 15th of next month.

The Wilmington Democrat's correspondent says there were seven or eight capital cases to be tried at Lenior Superior Court this week.

The Charlotte Observer says Coles circus took several boys, mostly colored, from the vicinity of Charlotte, on its recent appearance at that place.

Poe Herold. Mr. Young Morton reports that John Mosley killed a rattlesnake on the 14th inst., which measured 54 inches in length and 8 inches in circumference. This is the day and generation of big snakes.

Wilkesboro Witness: We learn from a gentleman from Watauga county that the case of the State vs. E. C. Harmon, for the killing of Elias Trivet, so-called time during last summer, resulted in the conviction of the prisoner. About two days were consumed in the impugning the jury.

The heaviest hail storm ever witnessed in the section passed over a portion of Halifax county last Sunday. Some cotton fields were literally stripped of bolls, leaves and limbs, and the cotton beat into the ground as not to be worth gathering up. Piles of the hail were in fence corners two days after it fell.

Robesonian: Dr. R. M. Norment of this town has a pet rattlesnake which is over five feet in length and has 11 rattles. His name is Osman Pasha, and like the Turks, he is pluck. A huge rat was recently thrown into his cage, and it was thought some fun would be witnessed, but he killed the rat almost instantly.

Charlotte Observer: It was thought worthy of note when, about two years ago, the wife of Mr. Thos. J. Suggs, formerly of this city, but now of Gaston county, gave birth to three children at one time but last week she went herself one better, giving birth to four. The whole quartette is living and doing well. Further than this the triplets, Mrs. Suggs' former achievement, are all living, and here we have the case of seven children from one mother and none more than two years of age. It is the most remarkable case of its kind we ever heard of, and we doubt if it has ever had its parallel in the United States.

Greensboro North State: The fruit crop of this section of the country, this season, has surpassed any other season for many years, both in quality and quantity. There was no failure in any of the many fruits to which North Carolina—particularly the western portion—is well adapted. Apples, pears, peaches, plums, cherries, apricots and berries of all kinds, abundant in this season, in the greatest profusion.

That excellent weekly, the Salisbury Watchman, entered upon its ninth volume of the third series this week. The editor says: "The hard times of which all have complained for several years, have borne as hard upon us, we suppose, as upon any one else. But like the majority of hard workers, we are emerging from out of the gloom with honor untarnished, and ready to enjoy the 'good times' when they come, with a conscience at peace with our fellow-men. We expect to work hard to the end of our days, doing the best we can to give our patrons the full value of their money, and confidently expect to be rewarded thereby to the extent of an honest and comfortable living."

GOV. VANCE AT THE WELDON FAIR.

The address of Governor Vance was the attraction at the Weldon Fair. Many who would probably have been present on other days, waited to come on Thursday that they might see or hear North Carolina's favorite son on agriculture, as many of them had heard him on politics, and many others who had never seen or heard him embraced this opportunity of gratifying their desire to do so.

Gov. Vance was introduced to the large audience present by R. B. Peebles Esq., of Northampton. The Governor's address was delivered off-hand from a few notes which he kept before him. It was a plain, practical address, suited to the audience and the occasion, interspersed with illustrative anecdotes, and was received with hearty tokens of approval.

He started off by alluding to the difficulty of addressing so large an audience in the open air as to be heard; said he would detain them but a short time, say about four hours. He said that most of his knowledge of agricultural matters was gained by observations taken from outside the fence, but there were some general ideas to be gained from that position as well as from the inside and he would proceed to do the best he could. Here he related an anecdote of the Governor of Missouri being received by the municipal authorities of a village in that State on the occasion of an official visit, to illustrate how glad he was to meet with those present, and proceeded to eulogize the old county of Halifax, emphasizing his remarks by several appropriate anecdotes.

He next drew a parallel between the condition of the country now and what it was twelve years ago. Then desolation marked the whole face of the country and the people were helplessly under bayonet rule; now the signs of thrift and recuperation are visible on every hand and the people are under the rule of a civil government of their own choice. He said he was glad to see these evidences of returning prosperity; was glad to see we had a President who had regard to the constitutional restraints and who seemed disposed to administer the government on constitutional principles.

He said the late war had taught the people of the South several important lessons, which they would do well to heed and improve. The first, is that cotton is not king, but that meat and bread is; the Southern people can never be independent under the old system of raising nothing but cotton and buying everything they consumed. They must manufacture something. We must not rely upon the North for our wheel hubs and ax handles, buggy shafts and every mechanical and domestic article we use, but must get to making these articles for ourselves, and especially must we raise our own meat and bread and not depend upon Cincinnati for it.

The second lesson is, we must look after our own liberties, which are always endangered by war. He went on to describe the inroads of tyranny and abuse of power by those in authority after the war; the encroachments on liberty and dishonest government on the liberties of the people, and the infringement by those in office upon the constitution and the laws. He was glad to know that the people have begun to look after these things and to be watchful of their liberties.

Third, we are beginning to look after our national integrity. The corruption that had invaded the branches of the government and all the ramifications of business was being rooted out and a spirit of national integrity taking its place.

The fourth lesson we should learn from the war and its results is, we should not depend altogether upon negro labor; let us regulate it the best we can and make the most of it we can, but we must go to work ourselves. He drew a parallel between negro and foreign labor favorable to the former. He drew a picture of half a dozen white men sitting around a store door whittling while the negro because he won't work. He also drew a picture of the happiness and independence of a family who are not ashamed, nor afraid, nor too lazy to do their own work.

The Governor spoke graphically of the advantages of our own State over other States of the Union—the capabilities of the soil and favorableness of the climate—the contiguity of the market to the work and the advantages which this gives over even richer and more productive sections.

But we cannot in a mere synopsis convey an adequate idea of the address; it must have been heard to be fully appreciated. He laid down three maxims which he said he thought it would be wise to heed. 1. Use none but home-made fertilizers. 2. Let every farmer raise his own meat and bread. 3. Preserve the forests of the State. In connection with the last, he made some very practical remarks in regard to a stock law, and alluded to the advantages already apparent in Mecklenburg county.

where this law has been adopted, the result being better crops, better stock and a better system of labor. He alluded to and explained the workings of the State Agricultural Department, its operations in regard to the regulation of immigration, the land agency feature of it, and what has been done in the promotion of fish culture. Then with a gallant address to the ladies, as foremost in all good works, he closed his address which had consumed something over an hour and a quarter, but which did not seem half so long, amid the plaudits of the large audience present.

THE BALTIMORE ELECTION.

In the Municipal Election in Baltimore, a Mayor, Sheriff, Surveyor and members of both branches of the City Council were chosen. There were four candidates for Mayor in the field—Geo. P. Kane, Democrat; Henry M. Ward, Reform; Joseph Thompson, Working-man and Greenback; Griffith, Ind. The real contest was between Kane and Thompson, the parties that originally supported Wardfield, chiefly the Republican organizations, having abandoned his cause as offering no chance of success. For Sheriff and Surveyor only the Democrats and Workingmen made nominations, and this was generally the case with members of the Council, although the Independents had candidates in some of the wards. The Reform movement never extended beyond the candidate for Mayor. There was a very energetic canvass of the city by the Democrats and Workingmen, extending over several weeks, and the fight was so enthusiastically conducted as to call out a rather large vote. The vote of the city in former years has been as follows:

	Dem.	Rep.	Ma.
1872—President.....	2989	1942	506
1873—Mayor.....	1024	51	263
1874—Congress.....	2062	1208	844
1875—Mayor.....	2838	251	266
1876—Governor.....	4268	1062	109
1877—President.....	3292	2063	1019

The Charleston Journal of Commerce says, of three bills introduced by Senator Merrimon, two relate to the Presidential office. The first provides that in case the country is left in any way without either a President or Vice-President, the order of succession shall be: Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Postmaster-General. The second shifts the date of the choice of Presidential electors in the several States to the Tuesday next after the first Monday in October, and that of the meeting and voting of the Electoral College to the first Wednesday in January. Doubtless Senator Merrimon has arguments which seem to him conclusive in favor of these changes, and which will be laid before the public to due time. His third bill, restoring to the pension lists all names stricken off for disability, has a better chance of coming up for action at this session than either of the others.

A Plan to Pay Louisiana's Debt.
 NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 23.—A syndicate of business financiers in Europe have proposed to loan the State of Louisiana $12,500,000, with which the State must call in and pay off her present debt at par, with interest to the date of retirement. The State must then issue the same amount of bonds to the syndicate, bearing 5 per cent interest, principal and interest made payable in forty-five years. Under this arrangement the State would be required to pay out about $500,000 per annum, on account of principal and interest, instead of the $800,000 now required to pay interest on the State bonds. It is believed, however, this proposition cannot, under the Constitution and present State laws, be accepted.

October.

Through golden morn and purple eve
And shadows cool and tender
With scenes of tranquil happiness and
O' vintages whose presses pour the royal
Gave joy and peace and plenty
In the largest of your measure
For the coming days are dreary days of turmoil and of strife. Kate M. Sherwood.

NEWS NOTES.

The English used to say, "Scratch a Russian and you find a Tartar." Now the Russians say, "Scratch an Englishman and you find a Turk."

After the first of January the North American Review is to be published in New York instead of Boston, with the imprint of D. Appleton & Co.

Mr. T. M. Metcalf, Minnesota's Commissioner of Statistics, estimates that the wheat crop of that State this year will reach the enormous amount of 40,000,000 bushels, no withstanding the ravages of the grasshoppers.

Miss Alice Blaine's injury came from the explosion of a toy pistol which she held. The ball entered her forehead and she became unconscious for a few minutes. The wound is a dangerous one, but her symptoms are said to be favorable. The bullet has not yet been extracted.

In the estimates just submitted to Congress from the Treasury we find the following figures:

War Department estimates for 1878.....$12,436,764 98
War Department Appropriation for 1877.....31,984,925 50
Excess for 1878.....$451,839 48

William Gale completed successfully, in London, on October 5, the task which he had begun on August 26, of walking 1,500 miles in 1,000 consecutive hours—a mile and a half, that is to say, in every hour, day and night, for six weeks, less one day. A bell has summoned him to each walk as the hour has sounded, so that he rarely had half an hour's sleep at a time during the long period mentioned. He has taken food when he felt hungry, and has suited his taste and appetite, without regard to time or regimen.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Mr. Hayes' Southern policy is right; it is the policy the Democracy have advocated for years. The Democrats in Congress, and especially in the Senate, should see to it that Mr. Hayes does not lose anything by having it adopted. If Conkling, and Blaine, and others of that class should attempt to hamper and harass Mr. Hayes in the discharge of official duty, because he has adopted the Democratic policy, then the Democrats in Congress should make it their business to promptly and effectually counteract any such course on the part of Blaine and Conkling.

Immoral Spectacles.

The indecent show given by a strolling troupe in the theatre in this city, last week, afforded a good text for a homily on immorality. But it is not so much our purpose to make a preachment upon this sort of vice as an offence against God's law, as to denounce it as an infringement of the civil or human code, and put in a plea for the enforcement of the rights of society. Such exhibitions not only mock the Author of all purity, they openly flout decency in the face and outrage every feeling of propriety and every sense of social security. If exhibitions of this nature are allowed by the laws of the land, soon there will be no limit to the foulsights that disgrace our cities. Imperial Rome, falling by the weakness engendered by her wickedness, is also her melancholy example. Poland, in modern times, is still another. In these nations the violation of the true code of society followed fast upon the violation of God's law. A people who defy conscience, the monitor within, will not be long in abandoning the usages to deeds of unseemly and lives most brutal. From such a condition of abjectness to the last seen in the drama of ruin is not far.

Speaking with regard to society as controlled by human laws, and seeking especially the enforcement of these laws as necessary to the preservation of sound morals and good order among us, we emphatically protest against the license of all immoral exhibitions. Let us make of our statutes something more than the dead letter. And where the law is vague and inefficient, let our lawmakers revise it, so that it may be potent, determinate and powerful that vice, if it win a stronghold in our land, will be obliged to do so in the enveloping pall of darkness and under the frown and fear of the civil authorities.

Mount Ararat.

[From Dr. Bryce's "Transcendental and This is the spot which he reveres as the supposed scene of his creation and his preservation from the destroying waters, a land where he has lived and labored and died ever since his record began, and during ages from which no record is left. Dynasty after dynasty has reared its palaces, faith after faith its temples, upon this plain; cities have risen and fallen and risen again in the long struggle of civilization against the forces of barbarism. But of all these works of human power and skill not one can be discerned from this height. The landscape is now what it was before man crept forth on the earth; the mountains stand about the valleys as they stood when the volcanic forces that piled them up were long ago extinguished. Nature sits enthroned serenely calm upon this lofty pinnacle, and speaks to her children only in the storm and earthquake that level their dwellings in the dust.

Murfree's Enquirer: Last week a couple of negroes named Joe Hill and Israel Savage, living on the farm of Dr. J. C. Jacobs, in Northampton, got into a quarrel when savage cut Hill on the head from which, at latest account, it was thought Hill would die. The corner went to hold an inquest over his body on Monday, but were surprised to find him alive. Savage has been lodged in jail to account for the act.
